

7 ways

Occupational Therapists support young people with dyspraxia

1

Assessment and diagnosis

2

Support with self care

3

Support with activities in nursery/school

4

Support with play and leisure activities

5

Provide step by step instructions for new activities

6

Teach new skills using alternative equipment or changing the environment

7

Allow processing time